To my loving Husband

Dear hubby, when God was making husbands He definitely made the best for me. So loving, compassionate, kind, true patient, generous and caring. I only wish my effort, the church, relatives, friends and doctors effort to have you retain your life bore fruits, I would still be sharing the good life with you, but I have to accept God's will to honour you by His side you are healed completely.

For our two angels, I promise to continue the love we had for them. The memories I had with you shall forever be printed in my heart. Till we meet again,

Rest in Eternal my Darling Hubby.

Ingrid Muthoni

To my darling dad in heaven

Dad, thank you for everything you took care of every single need I had. You demonstrated so much love to me everyday. The best memories I retain are those of you and I playing Pacman, climbing trees together and running together. The challenges were so much fun, I already miss them. You said to me so many words of wisdom the world will never hear. With your blessings I can touch the sky. I promise you dad to be your pride and Joy. Though you're no more. You are still my polar star in both good and bad times.

Javars Murothi

To my already resting Hero dad,

Dad, I will forever be grateful to God for the years I had you. Thank you for providing for me, I will forever be grateful. We shared wonderful memories that I shall forever treasure; playing Pacman, going out together, laughing together, taking me to and from school & many more.

You taught me how to be a great human, respectful, God fearing, hardworking, moreso in school, loving others & forgiving, being kind to everyone and choosing my friends wisely. I promise never to fail you even in your absence. I will forever miss you dearly. Rest in Peace Dad, I love you.

Rest In Peace
